Subject pictures of terracottas sent to Dorothy Thompson; notes from small finds, geologists, and wares of VIIb at Istanbul; reburial of the megaron and 400-500 tablets found at Pylos; Greek excavations at Mycenae, and Wace at "Blegen's House"

Notes Letter from Jack Caskey to Marion Rawson talking about photographs developed at the Agora of terracottas from Troy. Caskey mentions some of the types of terracottas photographed, and also notes pictures of sherds included within the lot, for Cedric. He also describes rewriting notes that he took in Istanbul on wares of VIIb, as well as observations from geologist Norman Herz. He mentions that Carl W. Blegen has been at Pylos with Gene Vanderpool, and that the number of tablets found there during the summer numbered between 400 and 500. Finally, he describes Greek excavations at Mycenae on a Middle Helladic circle older than the sixth grave of Schliemann's circle, as well as Wace's digging in "Blegen's House" and uncovering some 30 linear B tablets there.

Subject	Letter from Marion Rawson [assumed] to Carl W. Blegen detailing some of the organization of the terracottas from Troy, and their photographic records. She broaches several possible researchers who might be good candidates to study them and mentions the possibility of bringing the terracottas to the United States to study them. She also mentions the lamps from Troy.
Notes	Letter from Marion Rawson to Carl W. Blegen detailing her work with the inventory cards of small finds (small objects) from Troy that are not included within Karo's lists from the sanctuary. She lists the terracottas and their box numbers, which were sent to Istanbul in 1938. She also notes terracottas from 1932 that are unclear and need to be rephotographed; she mentions sending the pictures of the terracottas along to Mr. Weld. She asks Carl to think of somebody who might be good to publish the terracottas, suggesting Dorothy Burr Thompson as a possible candidate if the terracottas could be brought to to the United States. She mentions the lamps from the pottery inventory list and says that the last person to look at them was Broneer on June 27, 1938 at Troy.  Included in folder marked "Blegen 1948-1949"

Subject Letter from Carl W. Blegen to Marion Rawson, describing some of the visitors to Pylos from the summer and asking her about pot shipments (presumably of pots from Troy) from 1937 and 1938. He also mentions that he asked Dorothy Burr Thompson to take on the publication of the Troy terracottas.

Notes Letter from Carl W. Blegen to Marion Rawson detailing visits received during the summer of 1952 at Pylos, doings in Istanbul with the museum, including the pot shipments of 1937 and 1938, which had been transferred from their larger, more carefully catalogued boxes to smaller unmarked boxes during the war. Jack Caskey is mentioned as having photographed a majority of the terracottas that needed it, and it is confirmed that Dorothy Burr Thompson will be the one to publish the terracottas. He also describes difficulties in seeing the differences between VIIa and VIIb pottery, although JLC did designate a Tan Ware. Blegen also describes the setting up of the Troy Room, and some talks with Bittel, who has been reviewing Troy I and Troy II.

Notes Front and back of page both contain writing. Note from Carl W. Blegen to Piet de Jong sent to confirm his participation at Pylos during the summer of 1955 season. Blegen mentions fresco fragments that need drawing and possibly reassembly, and that he will be having them cleaned by a technician named Zacharias, if he is available. Blegen also reminds de Jong about the guest policy at Pylos, and that Effie will only be able to come to visit for a couple of days. He invites Piet to come out in May, and asks how long he will be available to work. Blegen also mentions that he is preparing to leave New York for Athens on March 6th, 1955. Subject	Letter from de Jong to Blegen describing drawings of Levi's seals and mentioning summer plans, presumably for 1956, to work at Blegen and for Oscar.
Notes	de Jong mentions that he will see Blegen on March 21st in London, and describes drawing seals for [Doro] Levi (about 265 of them). He had to handle a number of fragments to complete many of the reconstructions. He also mentions completing two interior views of the Domestic Quarters of the Palace of Nestor, as well as the facade of the Central Court for the museum. He mentions Blegen's plans to dig at the palace starting in June, plans to come out in July, work for Oscar for a month, and then return to Pylos when they are ready for him.

Notes	Front and back of page both contain writing. Carl W. Blegen mentions plans to depart for Greece on March 2nd and to be in Athens by April 14th. He says that Marion Rawson will be arriving in mid-April, and that he is planning on bringing along Watson Smith, who has experience digging in Arizona and New Mexico where frescoes are well-preserved. Blegen asks about the drawing of the hearth that de Jong has been working on, and asks him to keep ahold of it until somebody can bring it back to the United States for Blegen. Blegen also asks de Jong to take a color picture of it, if possible. There is mention of the Pylos dig receiving a great deal of publicity, including articles in journals and papers in America, as well as the London Daily News. Subject Letter from de Jong to Blegen mentioning Palace of Nestor floor drawing, summer work, and news of Sinclair Hood

Notes Piet de Jong describes the process of completing the Palace floor drawing, which he planned initially to do without cutting the sheet, but later considers cutting it because of the size of just 30 of the squares. He wants to go back to work at Pylos, but tells Blegen that it is a financial question and that he can only return if he is guaranteed 3 months of work. As a solution, de Jong suggests that he try to find additional work with Platon and at the Agora. At the same time that he is working on this, he also has a project pending for Wace and Hood--if Blegen can spare him. He's writing to ask about the urgency of the project. He mentions the rate for which he's working, too--1000 dollars for 3 months.

She hadn't realized that they only wanted footage of the excavation of the tholos. That said, it might be better to simply eliminate the Pylos footage altogether, since the section that they want to use for the film is so short. Subject Letter from Rawson to Johnson forbidding use of the Pylos footage if it is incorrect (reversed).

Notes Rawson replies to Johnson's request that a minute of footage of film from Pylos be permitted to be included within the film "The Remote Past," even though the film from the clip was reversed in the editing process. Rawson communicates her and Blegen's wish that the footage not be included, on the grounds that even if "20,000 laymen wouldn't know the difference," they would not be promoting the proper education of the American public on the topic of archaeology-- and that is one of their priorities. She goes on to note that commercial filmmakers already portray the industry incorrectly, and for the Archaeological Institute of America to do likewise reflects badly on the institution.

Carl W. Blegen Personal Correspondence

Date 1/25/1957
Author Jotham Johnson
From Department of
Recipient Marion Rawson
To
Material correspondence
Subject Letter from Johnson to Rawson asking that she give permission to use a minute of footage from Pylos that was edited with the film reversed (i.e., left and right reversed)

Notes Johnson writes to Rawson to apprise her of the situation with the editing of the Pylos film for a documentary, " The Remote Past." Johnson writes in Kraemer's stead, because Kraemer is traveling in Guatemala. The film, as it turns out, was reversed by the technician editing it, because it would have caused the film to be damaged if he had edited it in the regular way. Johnson mentioned that George Mylonas had noticed the reversal right away in one of the sweeping landscape shots, and asks Marion if she is alright with including the minute of footage anyway.

Subject	Letter from Johnson to Blegen assuring him of the measures that will be taken to safeguard film that Cincinnati allows the Archaeological Institute of America to use in the production of a film on archaeology, and suggest that footage from Pylos also be included as a project in progress
Notes	Johnson writes Blegen in response to some sort of permission or service that he provided not long ago [Blegen's letter not preserved]; he also thanks Blegen for giving permission to use footage from Troy, and assures him that the film will be safeguarded for use by being copied before being edited carefully and professionally. He also assures Blegen that Rawson will be credited as photographer of the films. He give an address for shipping the film as well. Johnson plans to visit Cincinnati in March for a lecture that Cedric Boulter has scheduled.

Material	correspondence
Subject	Letter requesting that Rawson return either Piet de Jong's drawings of the lyre player fresco from the Palace of Nestor at Pylos or that they send a color transparency that could be usable for the cover of ARCHAEOLOGY magazine
Notes	Two letters paperclipped together on the same subject. Thomas writes to Rawson to request that she return the kodachrome of the lyre player from Pylos that ARCHAEOLOGY had been using and prematurely returned. The magazine wants to use de Jong's rendering as the centerpiece of their Mycenaean issue. Originally, it had been thought that the shape of de Jong's drawing would not work with the cover, but the design team decided that a closeup of "Orpheus" would be satisfactory. Thomas also mentions how nice it was spending time in Cincinnati for the AIA's in January

Subject Response to request for photograph of wall from "Homeric Troy"

Notes Cleator thanks Blegen for providing him with a photograph for his publication illustrating a section of the wall attributed to Homeric Troy ("a striking photograph"); Blegen, in his response, notes that the photographic print depicts the East Fortification wall of Troy VI, as illustrated in Troy III, Fig. 1. According to Blegen, "The wall was actually built in the time of the Sixth Settlement, but it continued, with some repairs and additions, to be used in the succeeding period of Troy VIIa, which we believe to have been 'Homeric Troy.'" Blegen missed this request because he was in Greece, so Boulter responded to his mail to let Cleator know that the request would take some time to fulfill.

Subject	Personal Notes on small finds and pottery from excavations of Troy VIIa and Troy VIIb
Notes	These notes as assumed to be from 1952, based on the comment on page 3. Notes from the small finds pottery of excavations of Troy VIIa and Troy VIIb, which appear to have been taken for personal use rather than as a notebook that others could go back and consult. These notes are assumed to have been taken after excavations, and while Troy VIIa was being prepared for publication, because they do not appear to have come from field notebooks, but in some cases appear on departmental paper and on paper of various styles and sizes. Many of the pages contain writing on their reverse side as well. Although these pages are not bound, they have been grouped together because they are unintelligible apart. The contents include: annotated schematic drawings, descriptions of ceramic finds from various areas of excavation (including some of the houses), photo logs, descriptions of iconography and motifs from sherds, and descriptions of the contents of numerous lots of pottery by the categories "Gray Minyan Ware, Tan Ware, and Painted Ware. Included in folder marked "Troy VIIa &amp; VIIb CWB"

Subject	Photographs of workers, architecture, Mycenaean pottery, and seals from excavations at Troy
Notes	These photographs are assumed to have been sent to Blegen from Caskey on the basis of the envelope, which has Caskey's address crossed off, and which is readdressed to Blegen at 9 Ploutarchou street by hand delivery (no other directives given); consequently, it was probably sent while Caskey was serving as Head of the American School of Classical Studies at Athens. The given date for the photographs is based upon the numbering system that they are given, which is designated by a letter, followed by a number that corresponds to the last two digits of the year in which the photo was taken. The photographs, of which there are 29 total sheets (some with multiple entries) belong to the "T" and "K" series (i.e., those are the letters that head their descriptive code). Some of them are working shots, while others are posed shots that probably went into catalogues for Troy. The pottery and fortifications photographed appear to correspond to the Mycenaean period. The envelope that contained these photographs was labeled, in pencil (presumably by Blegen): "Photographs - Troy".

Subject	Materials related to the examination, illustration, documentation, and shipping of selected pottery from Troy (Çanakkale), including lists of sherds and lots examined.
Notes	These twelve pages (of which one is a small photograph of a zoomorphic pendant object) contain notes listing lots of pottery examined (3 total), labeled schematic tracings (2 total), and labeled photographs (3 total). Some of the labels on the drawings match those on the lists. Two of the three lists are labeled "boxes looked at" and contain the dates 1939 and 1948. It is also assumed that because the folder is labeled "1951," that it refers to pottery examined in May of 1951, and consequently these lists also may refer to pottery from 1938 [see folder number 397 for details]. On the back of the photograph sheets, there are labels for the contexts from which the pottery has come. Subject Letter accompanying tracing of reconstruction of the Palace of Nestor

Notes Sorrell writes to append questions to his proposed reconstruction of the Palace of Nestor, asking Blegen numerous questions about the what they know from excavations. Sorrell asks that Blegen make additions and corrections to his drawing, and return the tracing as soon as possible. This item pairs well with Blegen's response, folder 408.

Subject Letter from Blegen responding to Alan Sorrell's various questions concerning Sorrell's proposed reconstruction of the Palace of Nestor.
Notes Blegen responds to Sorrell's questions and references his plan. This is a valuable document for determining precisely what Blegen thought that he knew about the palace in March of 1955. This document pairs well with Sorrell's letter from folder 407.

Notes	Blegen responds to Ingram's request for a reconstruction of the Palace of Nestor, explaining that there are not yet enough data to provide one. He does, however reference a ground plan showing what has been uncovered during the 1952 and 1953 seasons. There is also a description of the Megaron enclosed, which goes into considerable detail (Blegen states reservations).

Subject	Request for reconstruction of the Palace of Nestor, or, failing that, a detailed ground plan; the request also asks for an article about the tholos that will precede a later article about the megaron
Notes	The two separate articles were requested because the Ingram felt that the tholos was self explanatory, but that the megaron required more general background and would be more involved, therefore necessitating a later article.

Material correspondence
Subject Exchange between The Illustrated London News and Blegen in which they ask him to compose an article and he agrees
Notes Ingram writes to Blegen on a referral from Alan Wace. The terms of the article--1200-1700 words and 20-30 photographs from which the production team would choose, two seasons in one article--are discussed. Blegen's response (a handwritten draft, attached) inquires about their desired scope and about the deadline for the article.

On the back of the Blegen response, there is another note addressed to "Lily" that asks three questions on an unrelated matter to the ILN article, that of "nominees." He agrees that Picard and Orlands are nominated, he is content with the nominees, and he suggests for the two remaining nominees that Myrus, Keramopoulos, and Weichert be nominated. The date of the note is October 24, 1953.

Subject	Letter asking Bibby if she will help to find where Goethert has been, and asks her to pass a list of things along to Goether.
Notes	Goettner excavated primarily in 1934-1935. Rawson writes in response to frustration that Blegen had in preparing the final report.  The second letter is more firmly worded and is typed by Rawson [assumed]. It asks Goethert for information about House VI S, and House VI 1 and its contents, and asks several other questions about the walls as well.  Included in folder marked "Goethert"

Subject	Two short stories- one about a filly in Cincinnati, and one about a worker at Troy
Notes	These two stories were bound together, so they are filed together. "Nelly Was a Lady" describes a horse pastured in a yard near Clifton School in Cincinnati, and uses her death to describe her life, and in turn her relationship to the ever-changing landscape of a growing city through time.  "Johnny," which is written in Blegen's hand, describes a worker from Troy who was a vibrant, occasionally wily, and very intelligent character.  Included in folder labeled "Literary Club Papers"

Subject Letter from Blegen to Dörpfeld expressing his regret that Dörpfeld could not visit excavations during the summer of 1936, and expressing his conclusions about the site's chronology and its relationship to sites from the Greek mainland.

Notes Blegen disagrees with Dörpfeld's chronology, and says that he recognizes the sequence differently and sees things more from Wace's perspective. He also agrees with Dörpfeld [at least in writing] that the Greek traditino [and by this he means the Homeric epics] should be further considered. Blegen finishes by giving news from each of the identified levels of the site from the summer. This is a helpful letter for identifying chronology problems that were being discussed during the early 1950's as sites like Troy were published and sites like Mycenae and Pylos were being excavated.

Subject Letter from Merritt to Blegen and to Joe stating his agenda for the Personnel Committee of the American School of Classical Studies at Athens for 1953

Notes Merritt makes numerous suggestions as to how the members various committees ought to be changed, including the addition of newcomers. Of note is the nomination of Jack Caskey for Director, and the suggestion that Blegen take over the Personnel Committee as Merritt's replacement. A second letter from Merritt from February 4 [attached, 1 page, front and back contain writing] suggests still more appointments and changes. Also attached is a directory [2 pages, front and back contain writing] of members of the various committees for the American School of Classical Studies at Athens. Blegen's response [1 page, handwritten draft] politely accepts continued membership on the personnel committee, but expresses a desire not to be considered for eventual succession to the chair because of his frequent absences from Athens.

Material	correspondence
Subject	Letter informing Blegen of some of Chadwick's observations on the Pylos tablets and urging him to make sure that they are published as soon as possible
Notes	Chadwick relates that there seem to be two principal deities at Pylos: Poseidon and "Potnia." He also discusses some of the offerings that deities receive, along with priestly figures whose roles also appear in the tablets. Chadwick notes that it has been difficult to get in touch with Bennett about his interpretations, and asks Blegen if he would be willing to release the tablets confidentially to Chadwick or to Palmer for purposes of discussion at the London Seminar. Finally, Chadwick proposes coming out to Greece during the summer of 1957 to explore areas around Pylos

Subject	Letter explaining why news of Caskey's intention to take a position in Cincinnati has preceded his formal announcement that he is leaving the American School of Classical Studies at Athens
Notes	Both sides of this letter contain writing. Caskey blames Charlie Morgan for spreading news of Caskey's intent to withdraw from the School in 1959. He mentions Morgan's desire to get a new man in to be trained early, perhaps Henry Robinson. Caskey, however, is nervous about his contract, and wants to see something physical from Greene telling him that he will get what he wants if he comes to Cincinnati.

Subject	Letter from Wace to Blegen following up on Blegen's lecture and relating news of excavations in Greece
Notes	Wace asks Blegen a number of follow up questions and questions about sites where Blegen has dug in order to fill in some gaps that Wace has in his discussion of chronology that he is writing for the Cambridge Ancient History volumes. He asks if "Billy" (Lord William Taylor) is to dig at Pylos or Mycenae that year. He also relates news that Theochares has found "Vor-Sesklo" and "Proto-Sesklo" layers at Sesklo, below the layers of Tsountas. At the end of the letter, Wace discusses the ambiguity of the term "megaron."

Subject	Exchanges between Thompson, Blegen, Rawson, and Boulter concerning the publication of the terracottas from Troy
Notes	Series of letters [17 total] containing questions, comments, and progress of the publication of the terracottas from Troy. Thompson begins working on the terracottas in 1952, and eventually asks Blegen for a deferral for publication until after she has completed work on the Agora terracottas, of which the stratigraphy and chronology is more secure and will offer, she feels, some fixed points from which she can make stylistic observations about the Troy material. Her letters ask numerous questions about the material that she has been given, including information about their context, their significance, and about how they ought to be depicted and commented upon. In exchanges from 1956, Dorothy mentions business that she has with the Archaeological Institute of America, and asks that Blegen accept a nomination for president. Subject Exchanges between Bennett and Blegen concerning the study and publication of the Linear B tablets from Pylos

Notes Series of letters [20 total] and postcards from Blegen to Bennett regarding the publication of the Linear B tablets from Pylos. Blegen is trying to push Bennett to publish the tablets as quickly as possible, so that they are available to the scholarly community for study. Bennett, however, is in need of more time to complete the project and consequently the publication is dragging. This is cause for consternation on Blegen's part, because a publication entitled Documents in Mycenaean Greek is underway by John Chadwick and Michael Ventris, and is slated for press as early as 1956/7. Folder 532 contains a letter from Chadwick asking Blegen to provide some information about the tablets as a follow up to his examination of the tablets earlier that year.

In his correspondence to Blegen, Bennett mentions the possibility of publishing the tablets with minimal commentary and a series of photographs depicting the scripts depicted therein. Blegen is in full support of this idea. The questions and comments that Bennett communicates in his letters suggest that he is attempting to work on the tablets while addressing other commitments. His correspondence spans 1952 and 1958, with few outstanding gaps. The final item in this folder is a journal, Yale Scientific Magazine, with a brief article by Bennett about the tablets' contexts.

Subject Edited proofs from a publication, evidently pending, from Claude Schaeffer discussing linkages in the chronology of Troy with other sites in Asia Minor Notes The contents of this folder are responses to the proofs of an article entitled "La stratigraphie et la chronologie des principaux sites du bronze jusqu'ici explorés en Asia Mineure.

Schaeffer's proofs [assumed to be his because they are in French] include text [23 pages] and maps [three total], all edited in Rawson's hand. There are also two pages comprising a lengthy footnote that details reasons that Schaeffer's reinterpretation of the chronology of Troy is based on fallacious evidence. Schaeffer's argument hinges on the fact that Schliemann's original interpretation of the layers of the tell was correct, which, Blegen and Rawson argue, was not the case. In light of Blegen et al's later reinterpretation of the stratigraphy of the site, Schaeffer's chronology would be tied incorrectly into his other sites in Asia Minor.

The purpose of these hand-edited versions is unknown; they are probably employed in the formulation of the footnote [2 pages, 1 handwritten and 1 typed] also included within this folder. The destination for which the footnote is intended, however, is not known.

Subject	Exchanges between Blegen and Shoe concerning the publication of an early tholos tomb in western Messenia, and later regarding a tribute accompanying an issue of Hesperia to be dedicated to Bert Hodge Hill.
Notes	These letters [10 total] describe content to be included within Hesperia. From his first letter to Shoe, which describes a dull article about a grave in the Athenian Agora, it is evident that Blegen has a hand in the content of Hesperia publications.  In the exchange concerning the publication of the early tholos tomb, Blegen notes [October 27, 1953] that the tomb was originally discovered by K. Kouronniotes in 1926, but that it was never published. Shoe expresses great interest in a short article, which she receives in November. The article is set to run for winter.  In a second exchange, Blegen and Morgan are invited to write a tribute to accompany an issue of Hesperia to be dedicated to Bert Hodge Hill on the occasion of his 80th birthday. A typescript [3 pages] of the tribute is included within this folder.  Included in folder marked "Shoe, Lucy"

Subject Letters from Wace to Blegen from their exchanges regarding the chronology of the Linear B tablets at Knossos, Pylos, and Mycenae, and relating news from their respective excavations and scholarship
Notes Folder marked "Wace"

This folder contains 21 documents: 3 letters of recommendation by Blegen for Wace, 2 manuscripts sent by Wace to Blegen for comment, 1 copy of a letter from Iakovides to Wace, 2 letters from Blegen to Wace, and 13 letters from Wace to Blegen.

The letters from Wace to Blegen contain Wace's accounts of his ongoing excavations at Mycenae as they relate to the work that Blegen is doing at the Palace of Nestor. Wace relates news of discoveries, as well as his perspectives on the dating of the tablets and the chronology of Mycenaean palaces, as a part of an ongoing dialogue in which he and Blegen engaged while they excavated.

In addition there are drafts/copies of 2 letters from Blegen to Wace. Since both address the other as "Gov" (one letter [594q] jokes about the firm of "Gov, Gov, and Co."), the most reliable indications of author and recipient are signatures at the end of the letter (Wace's letters are signed; Blegen's, since they are drafts, are not) and letterheads (letters originating in Princeton - either the Institute for Advanced Study or the Nassau Tavern Hotel - are from Wace; those on University of Cincinnati letterhead or plain paper are generally from Blegen). Wace sends drafts of articles he has written for Blegen's comments, of which

Subject Retrospect to the literary club, given in honor of William T. Semple and Louise Taft Semple, concerning the background and daily life of excavations at Troy

Notes This document, presented as a retrospect to the Literary Club, represents an extended version of the paper included in folder 593. It details the process of securing a Cincinnati excavation at Troy as undertaken by the Semples, and then gives an account of the excavations themselves, including the living conditions and schedule on which the dig was conducted. Blegen states at the end of the work that he intends to proceed with a document that describes the discoveries of the excavations and the conclusions reached as a result, but that since he has already gone on for an hour [presumably these documents were read aloud at Literary Club sessions], he will truncate his account for the present time.

Notes The letters from this folder are exchanges concerning chemical analysis of bronze samples from Troy. The following events emerge from this correspondence:

In 1938, Blegen submitted samples of bronze from Troy to Dr. Cecil Desch of the National Physical Laboratory, under the auspices of the British Association for the Development of Sciences. The bronzes were subsequently mentioned in the Eighth Report on Sumerian Copper presented at Cambridge [in this folder, 3 documents, 7 pages total], but without any official results. Based on the letters in this collection, it appears that although Blegen repeatedly wrote to Desch following World War II in an attempt to receive information about the sample, Desch was unable to provide him with any data because he had already retired and had allegedly gone mad [see Rawson to Carothers 1956, included in this folder].

A list of the samples that were originally collected is included in one of the letters [Jaffee to Blegen, January 11, 1957], along with a collection of tags that appear to correspond to these samples [11 total]

Later, in 1954, Blegen attempted again to have the bronzes, as well as some carbonized wood from Pylos, chemically analyzed. With the help of Gordon V. Childe, Blegen recovered the samples from the National Physical Laboratory and sent them to the Battelle

Notes The title of Blegen's lecture series, "The Helladin ancestors of the Greeks," is given in folder 500. From the way that the manuscripts within this folder are clipped, there appear to be only two different papers that Blegen actually read when he visited the University of London. However, There is a numbering system for the documents that would correspond to three total lectures being given, as suggested by Blegen's dialogue with V. Gordon Childe in folder 500. Whether there were two lectures or three total, there are draft versions [30 pages], typed and revised versions [2 extras of each presentation, edited by Marion Rawson, according to handwriting] and final as-read versions [1 labeled as such] of at least one of the talks . One of the papers appears to have been a survey of Neolithic through Late Bronze Age culture in Greece [22 pages, ] and the other [23 pages] which seems to have covered Neolithic and Early Helladic pottery.

The first paragraph propounds the view that the peoples inhabiting mainland Greece during the Neolithic, Early Bronze Age, and Middle Bronze Age were 3 different "racial elements." The remaining paragraphs endeavor to demonstrate that the last group were Greeks, and traces their continuous occupation of Greece from the Middle Bronze Age through the Classical period and beyond. Discussion includes the scripts of Crete and the decipherment of Linear B as Greek, Cretan influence on late Middle Helladic and Mycenaean culture, the spread of Mycenaean culture around the eastern Mediterranean, and the "Dorian Invasion" as a "political disturbance in which the seats of the mighty were overthrown" but not a "racial or cultural break". Wace suggests that the gap between the latest known use of Linear B and the earliest known use of the Phoenician alphabet to record Greek is a gap in evidence rather than in literacy in Greece, and characterizes the Early Iron Age "Dark Ages" as dark on account of lack of information about them; he characterizes the "two urgent needs" of current archaeology as the discovery of "more documents written in the Linear B Script and the excavation of an inhabited site of the Early Iron Age."

Notes Wace is glad that the bronzes [see 594e and 594i] arrived safely and hopes their analyses will produce useful information, and thanks Blegen for his comments on Wace's writings that he had sent [594h].

Wace discusses the decipherment of Linear B as Greek: "It is really almost too good to be true that the decipherment of the tablets supports the archaeological ideas we worked out." He discusses the roles of various scholars (Chadwick, Ventris, Palmer, Bennett) in the ongoing work of reading the tablets and reports a dinner with "old Bolling" and "Prentice" who are favorably impressed with the decipherment; [A.J.] Beattie at Edinburgh, however, is not, and Mary Swindler reports that someone (else?) is contesting the decipherment.

Wace discusses dates of journey with Blegen and invites him to do a joint lecture to mathematicians at Princeton during Blegen's planned visit. Wace characterizes the review in the Literary Supplement as "smarty and silly and ... read as if written by Osbert Lancaster." Wace has not answered a request to borrow the embroideries for an exhibition in Copenhagen; he would rather send them to Cincinnati if the latter are interested.

Notes Wace questions the dating of the Linear B tablets from Knossos on the basis of Evan's digging methodology and speed. He cites Emmett Bennett's conclusion that analysis of the script suggests that the difference in time between the Knossos and Mycenae tablets is greater than that between the Mycenae and the Pylos tablets, which agrees with the pottery dating of the contexts if Evans' dating of the Knossos tablets is accepted. He suggests that the Knossos tablets might not all be of the same date and that there was strong Mainland (Mycenaean) influence at Knossos well before LM III.

This page may be the writing that Wace said he was enclosing [594m], although in that letter he said that it was a contribution to Chadwick and Ventris' book, but in this document he refers to information in Ventris and Chadwick, Documents, pp. 114-115. Alternately, it expands on the opinions expressed in 594XX and may thus be several years later than 594m.

Wace sends Blegen a copy of a letter from Jakovides [Iakovidis] about his excavations [at Perati] [594o]. Wace discusses the possible dating of the finds, and would like the opinion of Porada about the date of a cylinder seal; one possibility for dating Perati would agree with opinions expressed by Kantor in rejecting the Abydos jug.

He continues to work on his contribution to Ventris and Chadwick. He does not know Vercoutter's paper but will try to obtain a copy. Wace encloses some more of his writing [possibly 594n].

Notes When Wace had visited Iakovidis to see the finds from Perati Wace had asked if there were weapons, horses, inscriptions, or vases with octopuses on them, which at that time there were not; now all these items have been found.

Iakovidis outlines when and where he dug, and he describes the tombs. He discusses the dating implications of the Ramses II cartouche and the cylinder seal, which Wace has already seen, and of 4 newly found scarabs that had been found together; he disagrees with Furumark's dates for the end of LH IIIB and the beginning of LH IIIC. He describes briefly the shapes and decoration of the vases found to date, but says he has not yet had a chance to study them. He mentions figurines (including horses) from child and infant graves and concludes from their context that they were playthings, weapons from another tomb, and a lens-shaped jasper bead with what he takes to be Linear B on it; it is not yet cleaned, however, so the reading of the signs is uncertain. Iakovidis concludes with the hope that Wace will visit again so he can show him these latest finds.

This is the letter from Iakovidis that Wace said he was enclosing [594I].

Notes Wace (like, apparently, Blegen) has had a letter from Karo expressing the latter's intention to dedicate his book to Blegen and Wace. Wace has been in correspondence with Life about a proposed publication on Minoan and Mycenaean Art and he lists some of their errors against which he has advised them; he also recommended that they investigate the possibility of publishing Piet [de Jong]'s pictures of Cretan sites for the Candia Museum. They will also contact Blegen about some of their Mainland scenes.

Wace has sent off some of his writings for publication: "Last Days of Mycenae" to Saul [Weinberg] for Hetty [Goldman]'s festschrift [The Aegean and the Near East], and reports of this year's dig to the Times, to J.H.S., and to B.C.H., and he has written a first draft of something on [Helene] Stathatou's embroideries.

Wace inquires whether Blegen will be going to the Philosophical Society meetings, where they might meet. He reports that various other archaeologists "speak well of the old firm of 'Gov and Gov and Co" but reminisces that Evans had called them "Preposterous and Perverse".

The Waces are buying a flat. Lisa [Elizabeth French] is at her job at the R[oyal] Masonic School for Girls at Rickmansworth, Hertfordshire. He adds a brief report of finds at

Author Alan J.B. Wace
From Nassau Tavern Hotel,
Recipient Carl W. Blegen
To
Material correspondence
Subject Letter from Wace to Blegen

Notes Wace reports his trip from Greece back to Princeton. He invites Blegen to contribute a piece on Pylos to the Companion to Homer [605b], as a complement to Blegen's existing contribution on Troy [605a] and Wace's on Mycenae, and he requests that it be submitted by January.

Wace reports a rumor (elaborately sourced) that Papadimetriou has found but not yet dug another grave in Schleimann's Circle [Grave Circle A]. Marinatos showed him impressions of gems from Tragana, "a nice series", and Yalouris showed him photographs of pots from Samiko.

Notes Wace thanks Blegen for his manuscript on Pylos [605b] for the Companion to Homer, makes 2 editorial suggestions, and requests permission to send the manuscript with his comments on to Frank Stubbings for his comments. Wace discusses dates of travel to Greece and stops on the way.

Wace is sending a portion of this year's Mycenae report for Blegen's comments [not preserved].

Wace reports a list of archaeologists who are in Princeton, or who are scheduled shortly to arrive: Alison Frantz, Ioannis Papadimetriou, the Sjöquists, J. Yalouris. He wishes Blegen well on getting Troy IV finished, and he asks if Blegen wants to revise his section on Troy for the Companion to Homer.

Wace reports that Ventris and Chadwick's book is due out in early autumn and asks if Blegen has seen Palmer's latest pieces on the Pylos tablets.

Notes Wace expresses joy at Elizabeth Blegen's improving health; the symptoms sound like a stroke.

Wace discusses the dating of the Linear B tablets. He has met with Emmett Bennett, whose analysis of the hands suggests that the gap between Knossos and Mycenae is greater than that between Mycenae and Pylos. He hopes Sinclair Hood will find tablets in clear contexts in his excavations outside the Palace at Knossos. Wace expresses interest in reading Blegen's Sundwall paper [presumably Blegen, C.W. 1958. A Chronological Problem. Grumach, E., ed., Minoica. Festschrift zum 80. Geburtstag von Johannes Sundwall. Deutsche Akademie der Wissenschaften zu Berlin. Schriften der Sektion für Altertumswissenschaften, 12. Akademie Verlag, Berlin. p. 61-66].

Wace assumes Blegen has heard of the proposed Michael Ventris Memorial fund, to be used for archaeological or architectural grants or studentships.

Wace reports a letter from Theochares stating that the latter intends to excavate at Sesklo below the levels reached by Tsountas; Wace expresses a wish to return to Tsangli or Lianokhladi (or both!)

Wace thanks Blegen for sending a copy of his Sundwall paper [presumably Blegen, C.W. 1958. A Chronological Problem. Grumach, E., ed., Minoica. Festschrift zum 80. Geburtstag von Johannes Sundwall. Deutsche Akademie der Wissenschaften zu Berlin. Schriften der Sektion für Altertumswissenschaften, 12. Akademie Verlag, Berlin. p. 61-66]. He reiterates his hope that Sinclair Hood will find tablets in clear contexts in his excavations outside the Palace at Knossos [see 594s], and adds the wish on the Mainland that an LH II building could be found with its contents - perhaps to be fulfilled in the House of Lead or Citadel House at Mycenae or by excavations at Iolkos.

He repeats his report [594s] that Theochares intends to excavate the bottom strata at Sesklo, but wishes that he "could get down to publishing some of his prehistoric material from Attica."

Wace has written a few pages on Neolithic from Mycenae and wishes he were to find a bigger deposit of that date there. He is eager to see publication of Jack [Caskey]'s Neolithic from Lerna, which he characterizes as "first class stuff".

Wace lists upcoming archaeological lectures in Princeton: Dick Stillwell on Serra Orland

Notes Wace thanks Blegen for sending writing on Pylos [605b] and hopes he won't mind making the suggested changes; Wace will then send the manuscript to Frank Stubbings for inclusion in A Companion to Homer.

Wace thanks Blegen for reading his draft on Ephyraean style and discusses possible illustrations including drawings by Piet [de Jong]. He speculates that the Zygouries kylikes may developed from the Ephyraean style but connecting links are needed. Knossian examples are on coarser clay and "rather casually made"; Wace speculates on explanations.

Wace reports that P.D. [Papadimitriou] is writing left-handed, and discusses his publication of his grave circle [Grave Circle B]

Wace is rethinking the plan of the Propylon at Mycenae, which he describes for Blegen, on the basis of that at Pylos; Charles Williams will draw a sketch.

Wace reports that Karo's photographer is leaving for Greece and worries about his ability to obtain permission to see and photograph.
