The staff of Nestor wishes all readers a happy 1991. With this issue comes the renewal subscription form for volume 18. An international marketing firm has compiled a new grants database which lists more than 1,000 sources worldwide with more than $30,000,000 in potential funding for archaeology and anthropology. Called SPHINX, the project is the result of a perceived lack of funding sources for archaeology, according to Dr. William F. Vartorella, who spearheaded the year-long effort. SPHINX is available through Craig/Vartorella, Inc., P.O. Box 1376, 277 Peckwoods Road, Camden, South Carolina, 29020 on a subscription basis. For more information, please write, or call (803) 432-4353.

Forum

Beginning in 1992, the American Journal of Archaeology will publish as an annual feature a twenty-five page review of new discoveries and recent research in Aegean prehistory, the temporal and spatial focus, as well as the authorship, to vary from year to year. Thus far, topics for the first two reviews have been assigned:

1992: J.L. Davis, on the Aegean islands (exclusive of Crete, but including the Cyclades, the northern Sporades, the Dodecanese, and the islands of the northeast Aegean) in both the Neolithic and Bronze Age.

1993: J.B. Rutter, on the southern Greek mainland in the prepalatial phases of the Bronze Age (i.e., from EHI through LHII).

We both are actively soliciting from our colleagues help in assembling information and suggestions for illustrations (published and unpublished) to be included in our reports, and any assistance will be gratefully acknowledged in print. To a great extent, the accuracy, usefulness, and authority of our reports are dependent on our colleagues (i.e., on your active cooperation). Since the copy deadline for the 1992 report is December 1991, your contributions to it are needed urgently and will be of most assistance if received by June 1991.

Monographs in Mediterranean Archaeology provides a medium for publication of synthetic studies that deal with broad archaeological and interdisciplinary issues relevant to the circum-Mediterranean region. Like the Journal of Mediterranean Archaeology, this new monographic series regards the region delimited by the Mediterranean Sea as a single but multifaceted archaeological and geographic research area, and recognises the archaeological significance of the Mediterranean Sea as facilitator of, or barrier to, culture and material culture.

Aimed at the international archaeological community, Monographs in Mediterranean Archaeology will publish material that deals with local or regional production, development, interaction, and change in the Mediterranean world, and with the assumptions that can be extrapolated from relevant archaeological data. In general, the editors seek problem-oriented studies that present a solid and extensive corpus of archaeological (or ethnoarchaeological) data within a sound theoretical and methodological framework. Amongst the types of study that would be especially suitable for publication in Monographs in Mediterranean Archaeology are: substantially revised Ph.D. dissertations; coherent, well-structured, and analytical final excavation or survey reports; conference proceedings, symposia, or other collections of high quality and general interest. Purely descriptive excavation reports or survey results will not be considered. No constraints are placed on the period of focus, from Palaeolithic through Medieval. The area of investigation should be limited to the islands within, and the lands and regions that border or have a demonstrable impact on, the Mediterranean Sea.

Manuscripts will undergo careful peer review, and will be accepted for publication only upon recommendation by the Editorial Board of Monographs in Mediterranean Archaeology. In the first instance, prospective authors should send a précis (two-four pages) and detailed outline to the General Editor. Please do not send manuscripts until you have contacted either the General Editor or an Editorial Board member.

COMMUNICATIONS

Note from the Editors

An annual version of the journal of the Institute of Marine Archaeology, Ενόλιον, will now be published in English. To be called Ενόλιον Annual, it will contain English translations of the most significant articles from the previous year's issues of Ενόλιον, some original contributions, and other information about the previous year's activities in underwater archaeology in Greece.

Past Conferences

On December 1-2, 1990, a workshop entitled "Trade and Production in Pre-Monetary Greece" was held at the Swedish Institute, Athens. Papers were presented by Carole Gillis (Lund), George Koutsouflakis (Athens), Toula Marketou (Rhodes), AnnCharlotte Nordfelt (Stockholm), Christina Risberg (Uppsala), Ann-Louise Schallin (Gothenburg), Birgitta Sjöberg (Uppsala), Iphigenia Tournavitou (Athens), Berit Wells (Athens), and Carol Zerner (Athens). These papers will be published in Hydra.

A second workshop, "Trade and Production in Pre-Monetary Greece II", is being planned for late October 1991 in Athens at the Swedish Institute.

A Workshop on "Late Bronze Age Aegean -- Mediterranean Commerce (Session VI E) at the recent AIA Meetings in San Francisco was omitted from the January listings because we lacked full information on the proceedings. We can now report that the session included informal papers on "The Aegean, Syria-Palestine and the Levant" by A. Leonard, "The Aegean and Egypt" by M. Bell, and "The Aegean and 'West'" by M. Balmuth, with Jeremy Rutter responding "from the Mainland." Introductory bibliographies on the Aegean world's relations with each of the geographic areas were compiled by the presenters and may be obtained (free of charge) while they last from Albert Leonard, Jr., Classics, ML 371, University of Arizona, Tucson, AZ 85721.

Future Conferences

A day-long symposium entitled "The Rise of Complex Society and the Early State in Egypt" will be held at Boston University on April 25, 1991. Divided into a morning and an afternoon session, the symposium will focus on the origins of Egyptian civilization in the Neolithic and Predynastic periods, as well as the early state in Egypt and the origins of writing. For further information, please contact Professor Kathryn Bard of the Department of Archaeology at Boston University, Boston, MA 02215.

Lectures

On Wednesday, April 3, 1991, at 7:45 p.m., the New York Aegean Bronze Age Colloquium met at The Institute of Fine Arts, One East 78th Street, New York. Dr. Nanno Marinatos spoke on "Aegean Rhyta: Iconography and Function." Professor Jack Sasson spoke to the group on March 13 about "Recent Epigraphic Discoveries at Mari."

* * * *

On Wednesday, April 3, Dr. Kostas J. Gallis, Ephor of Antiquities for Thessaly, Greece, presented a lecture on his current excavations, "The Chronicle of an Excavation: Plateia Magoula Zarkou, 1974-1990," at Indiana University, Bloomington, where he is spending four weeks as a Fulbright Fellow at the Institute for Advanced Study.

Work in Progress

Mrs. Hedwig Landenius Enegren, of the Department of Classical Archaeology and Ancient History at Uppsala University, 753 10 Uppsala, Sweden, has begun work on a doctoral thesis entitled Prosographical Studies in the Knossos Linear B Archives.

Note from the Editors

Nestor readers may be interested to learn that an article in a recent issue of The European (Krushelnycky, Askold (Moscow), "Soviets cling to art treasures," weekend March 29-31, 1991:2) reports that Schliemann's Trojan treasures were among the "vast stores of artefacts looted by the Red Army" at the end of World War II and are now secreted in the Soviet Union. Two art historians, Constantin Akinsha and Gregorii Kozlov, admit they have not seen the treasures themselves but "have spoken to people who have and whom we trust. We know they are in the Soviet Union." By making the results of their studies public they hope "to start a discussion which will finally return these treasures to the places where they belong." We thank Daniel Pullen for sending the clipping to Nestor and urge other readers to follow his example.

Past Conferences

A conference on Mycenaean Crete, "Table Ronde: La Crète Mycénienne" was held at the French School of Archaeology in Athens, March 26-28, 1991. Jan Driessen, co-organizer of the conference, reports that discussions were animated, especially concerning the date of the Knossos tablets and the recent discoveries of Linear B tablets at Khania. The most important points highlighted were:

1. The LM IIIB1 date of the Khania tablets, their contents and hand very much resembling Knossian documents, and the problems they pose for historical interpretation.
2. The high degree of Knossian influence during the LM II-III A1 period in the other regions of Crete, and which drops during LM III A2-B.
3. The LM III A2-B period on Crete, characterized by a high degree of regionalism, sees the establishment of major centres such as Hagia Triada, Malia, Khania, Kommos and Palaikastro, whereas uncertainty reigns as to the interpretation of the feeble evidence at Knossos outside the palace.
4. The Mycenaean influence on the island is very difficult to identify archaeologically even in LM IIIB. The process of acculturation is a very gradual one and only in certain examples was the Mycenaean influence explicit. Crete stayed largely Minoan.
5. The discussion about the date of the Knossos tablets remains alive. An additional difficulty is caused by the proposition that the unity of the Knossos archives should no longer be accepted.

Forum

The first issues of the Cambridge Archaeological Journal, published by Cambridge University Press, are due to come out in April and October of 1991. The journal, ranging widely in space and time, will focus particularly on the role and development of human intellectual abilities as reflected, for example, in the art, religion and symbolism of early societies. It will also provide a forum for the publication of other significant archaeological research, both descriptive and theoretical. The editor is Dr. Chris Scarre, McDonald Institute for Archaeological Research, University of Cambridge, 62 Sidney Street, Cambridge CB2 3JW.

The Journal of Mediterranean Studies, a new interdisciplinary journal published twice yearly by the Mediterranean Institute at the University of Malta, is specifically aimed at scholars whose professional academic interests are with Mediterranean cultures within the fields of Social Anthropology, Classics, Archaeology, History, Popular Art, and Literature. Editorial correspondence and submissions should be sent to Dr. Paul Sant Cassia, Department of Social Anthropology, Free School Lane, Cambridge CB2 3RF, UK. ## COMMUNICATIONS

Note from the Editors

Along with this issue Nestor readers will find a list of ERRATA for the article "The Isles of Crete? The Minoan Thalassocracy Revisited" by Malcolm H. Wiener, in Thera and the Aegean World III, vol. 1 (London 1990). You may wish to attach the list to your copy of that publication. The errata were incorporated in the published text despite timely submission of corrected page proofs by the author. An accurate text of the article may be obtained at no cost from the Institute of Aegean Prehistory, c/o The Millburn Corporation, 1270 Avenue of the Americas, New York, NY 10020-1795.

It has become absolutely necessary to increase the subscription rates to Nestor by one dollar and fifty cents. The last increase was seven years ago. We hope to go for as many years without a further increase. The new rates come in effect in January 1992. Subscribers who are students will continue receiving Nestor at the current (1991) rates.
