On 1 April 2014 abstracts are due for the 3rd International Landscape Archaeology Conference 2014 (LAC 2014), to be held in Rome on 17-20 September 2014 for archaeologists, cultural and earth scientists and researchers from neighbouring disciplines to present and discuss results from the broad field of geo- and landscape archaeology. Abstracts (300-500 words) may be submitted via on-line form or in WORD document along with name and surname, academic affiliation, contact information, session number, and the first three words of the title. Further information, submission forms, and the list of sessions are available at <http://www.let.vu.nl/en/research/conferences/lac-2014/index.asp>.

On 1 September 2014 submissions are due for the Archaeology for the People Competition, with a prize of $5,000 to the winner, whose article, together with those by eight to ten other runners-up, will be published in Spring 2015 in a volume of the Joukowsky Institute Publication series (published and distributed by Oxbow Books). Articles (5000-6000 words in length, with no references, notes, or other scholarly apparatus, and accompanied by a single piece of artwork) should be submitted as a double-spaced Word document with the author's name, address, and e-mail on the first page to joukowsky\_institute@brown.edu. Submissions must be solely the work of their authors and must not have been published elsewhere; they should be accessible and exciting to non-specialists, but at the same time should avoid excessive simplification, speculation, mystification, or romanticization, conveying some of the fascinating and astonishing results that archaeology, as a discipline, has to report, which impact our entire understanding of who we are as a species, and how we have come to be as we are now. Further information is available at <http://proteus.brown.edu/archforthepeoplecompetition/Home>; questions concerning the competition should be directed to Prof. John Cherry (john\_cherry@brown.edu) and Prof. Felipe Rojas (felipe\_rojas@brown.edu).

On 15 December 2014 abstracts (500 words minimum) are due for a two-day international conference entitled First Textiles. The Beginnings of Textile Manufacture in Europe and the Mediterranean, to be held on 7-8 May 2015 at the National Museum of Denmark (<http://natmus.dk/en/>) and the Centre for Textile Research at the University of Copenhagen (<http://ctr.hum.ku.dk/>) in Copenhagen, with a possible visit the Land of Legends and its experimental archaeological center at Lejre (<http://www.saglandet.dk/English.425.0.html>) on 9 May. Further information is available at http://ctr.hum.ku.dk/economy/first\_textiles/. Papers are invited concerning the most ancient textiles and textile techniques in primarily Europe, Asia, and North Africa in the Neolithic and the Early Bronze Age (ca. 8th-3rd millennia BC), with priority to presentations of new material, to new analyses of older finds, and to new analytical tools, on the following topics:

The most ancient preserved textiles: archaeological material; microscopic analyses; raw materials (plant and animal fibres, skins, and furs); provenience of the fibres; manufacture of fibres and textiles; woven and unwoven textiles

Raw materials: use of plant and animal fibres, skins, and furs; domestication of flax; use of hairy and woolly wool; introduction and spread of woolly sheep wool and 'the textile revolution'

Scientific methods of analysing ancient textiles and recognising the provenience of fibres: strontium and isotope tracing; ancient DNA; protein analysis

Development and changes of textile techniques (spinning, twining, splicing, weaving, needle-work, etc.) during the Neolithic and Early Bronze Age

Studies of textile tools: the first appearance of spindle whorls, other spinning tools and techniques, loom weights, looms, tablets, frames, etc., and their changes and spread through distant regions and cultures

Basketry, mats, and other techniques

Studies of imprints of textiles, basketry, and mats in various materials; methods and analyses

Experimental archaeology and its role in reconstructions of early textiles, tools, and techniques

The social context of early textiles: textiles in society; household production; work organisation and specialization; textiles in habitational and funerary context; social status, gender, exchange, and trade of the raw materials and textiles

On 15 December 2014 new member-organized session proposals and new workshop proposals are due for the American Schools of Oriental Research Annual Meetings (ASOR 2015), to be held in Atlanta, GA from 18-21 November 2015.
