COMMUNICATIONS

From the Editor

I thank once again the librarians of the John Miller Burnam Classics Library at the University of Cincinnati — Rebecka Lindau, Michael Braunlin, and Shannan Stewart — for their unstinting efforts and apparently infinite patience supplying me and other library users with access to books and journals through this unusual year. I wish the best possible summer to Nestor readers and database users, and hope to see you, possibly even in person at some venues, during the next academic year.

middle-sea. Contributions from the broad field of Archaeology and Heritage Studies dealing with the Mediterranean will be particularly welcome that address issues such as the following:

- The role of memory and related places, objects and practices in promoting clash or mutual respect between identities of newcomers and established communities. In what ways is memory mobilised to trigger acceptance instead of exclusion?
- The articulation of memory in situations of displacement where individuals or groups have been completely removed from their original place, such as those currently characterising the eastern coast of the Middle Sea (as well as many other areas). What happens in these cases? What strategies are/can be employed to mitigate the loss of and/or to help re-creating memory?
- The ethics and politics of the memory of mobility. How is ancient mobility used nowadays to reinforce or dismiss claims of legitimacy to certain places made by certain groups?
